That the public may one and judge for themselves whether the above streement be true. I putilish a diagram of the old and one styles of planes, or rather the old fuzz argie, which rejects all modern insprevements, and the Haller, Davis a Go 's style which accepts the disctrine that we are living in an ope of ingrevenest, and that seem but old fugines will dairy that twice two equal four; and that 100 fbs. weigh twice as much as fifty pounds. pounds.
I will illustrate the philosophy of the two kinds of instru-ments, and heave the reader to draw his own conclusions.

ments, and heave the reader to draw his own conclusions.

1. The Hallet, Davis of Co. Picnous have a greater length of string than those of any other made in the sume sized case.

The truth of this statement may be seen at a glaces, as nearly the entire length of a straight vering can be used for vibratum, (see diagrams) while those that are hent, seenantly hive the rest or bridge pin inserted at a great distance from the ent of the piano; each straight which we have been the constraint when the constraint is the piano; which he are great the string would saw in twaln before it could be drawn up within an octave of concert pitch. concert pileh.

It is well known that the remote a structure plane does not possess the Johnst and dock of four of a seven-octave plane is that its strings are shorter. With the above improvement, a dx octave fields, that is do on the fields of the octave plane of a fall plane of any of by a fall of the field of the short and rocker face than a seven octave plane of any of b a

2, The Hallet, Davis & Co. Pinnes have a wider space between the strings than those of any other make. The truth of this statement is equally plain, from the fact at a straight arms.

3, The manner of stopping the vibration. 3, The measure of stopping the vibration.

The vibration of the string, in all places, commences where the hammer strikes it, near the heidigs, where if it stopped (see diagram IL.)

The tone of the best violin in the world can be ruined by substituting a poor bridge; thus proving that the twee of a string is asserted by the major that the twee of a string is asserted by the string to materially officially by the major in the IL. D. & C. place is string in substituting a poor bridge; and for the proper or bell metal (see diagram F) giving to the string a soft, full, meting injury of more while in all other planes the whereafted is stopped by upriging its proper in the string is and in the proper of the property of the proper

4, The eventure of the eibertion of the string. However much a string may be, in all produce no base until it vibrales, and the evener the observation the better the bone—To whence evenly; the string should have but two distinct mentions, directly to and five. The hammer strikes on the under side, [see disprant H], and the first motion of the string is to recode from the hammer. In the H. D. A. Ca, plane the second method of the string is to recode from the hammer. In the H. D. A.
